

Pharm-D community pharmacy visit

Pharm-D students receive training session in one of the typical community pharmacies (called Alyansoun), as a part of their educational program for pharmacy practice which is one of the important components of the sixth block in the second year.

By the end of this training the students should be able to:

1. Identify types of layout design for community pharmacy.
2. Review different types of drug information resources inside the pharmacy.
3. Explain the importance of pharmacy layout design.
4. Identifying how community pharmacist can respond to patient's symptom.
5. Identifying communication skills between the pharmacist and patient.
6. Differentiate between brand and generic names of drugs.
7. Identifying different parts of prescription.
8. Checking if the pharmacy has all the requirements of the Libyan law to open community pharmacy.
